ADMIRAL C. M'VAY, LED ASIATIC FLEET

Commander in Chief of Naval
Section in 1929-32 Dies—
Headed Wilson Escort

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP) — Admiral Charles B. McVay, retired, a former commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet, died today at the Bethesda Naval Medical Center. His age was 81. He retired in 1932.

After the first World War, Admiral McVay commanded the naval escort that accompanied President Woodrow Wilson on his return from the peace conference in France.

A native of Edgeworth, Pa., Admiral McVay commanded the Asiatic Fleet in 1929.

Surviving are his widow, a son, Charles B. McVay 3d, a retired Navy captain, whose home is in New Orleans, and two grandsons, Charles B. McVay 4th, who lived with his grandparents here, and James Wilder McVay, a student at Tulane University.

Admiral McVay commanded the Yangtze patrol in 1925. He was a former chief of the Naval Bureau of Ordnance and former budget officer of the Navy Department. He won the Distinguished Service Medal during the first World War while commanding the battleship Oklahoma in European waters.

His appointment as chief of the Navy Bureau of Ordnance came in 1921, when he held the rank of captain.

All But 1 Claim To $5,000,000 Estate Denied

A Relative in 5th Degree to Mary Powers Upheld as Recluse's Nearest of Kin

Surrogate William T. Collins dismissed all claims save one yesterday to the estimated $5,000,000 estate of the late Mary Bullock Powers, seventy-two-year-old recluse.

The Surrogate ruled, however, that the recognized claimant—who was the first of 173—must prove that he is entitled to all or part of the estate. He is Hollis Powers Gale, a carton company executive, of 68-60 108th Street, Forest Hills, Queens.

Of Mr. Gale, Surrogate Collins said that "all the proof supports the findings that Hollis Powers Gale is a paternal first cousin, once-removed, related to the decedent in the fifth degree." He added:

"There now remains for determination the issue whether the decedent was survived by any persons who are related to her in a closer degree, or in the same degree as Hollis Powers Gale. The burden is still upon the said objectant (Mr. Gale) to establish that he is a distributee of the decedent entitled to share in or inherit the entire estate."

Miss Powers died on July 20, 1948, in her $30-a-day suite at the Hotel Seymour, 50 West Forty-fifth Street, where she had lived in seclusion for twenty-three years, seeing no one except her doctor, her lawyer and a waiter who took her one meal a day.

The estate was placed in the hands of the Public Administrator, with instructions to search for relatives. After 173 claims had been filed Surrogate Collins ruled that he would hear only those who claimed to be relatives in the first to fifth degree of relationship.

Among those seeking to share in the estate was Raymond Joseph Powers, of 160 Brecker Street, who said he was an illegitimate son of Miss Powers. Surrogate Collins wrote that "he is not the illegitimate son of the decedent and is in no way related to her." He made a similar finding in the case of William Clary Powers, of Andover, Hampshire, England, who also claimed to be an illegitimate son.

Others claimed to be sisters, aunts, nieces, grandnieces and cousins of varying degrees.

SYDNEY J. SMITH, 81, EX-COTTON BROKER

Former Member of Exchange
Here Dies—Amateur Boxer and Horseman in Youth

Sydney J. Smith, a retired New York cotton broker and a sportsman, died yesterday in Roosevelt Hospital, after a brief illness, at the age of 81. He had homes at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and Boca Grande, Fla.

Born in New Orleans, Mr. Smith attended St. John's Military Academy at Ossining, N. Y. In his youth he was an amateur boxer, winning several trophies and once defeating the light-heavyweight champion of Harvard University.

He was for many years a member of the cotton brokerage firm of Smith & Stewart and was a former member of the New York Cotton Exchange. He retired fifteen years ago.

In his younger days, Mr. Smith was a well-known cross-country rider, winning many prizes at National Horse Shows and other competitions. He was a founder of the Meadow Brook Club at Westbury, L. I., and often rode to hounds there.

He was the oldest member of the Union Club in point of membership, having joined in 1889. Mr. Smith was a member of the Turf and Field Club and Holland Masonic Lodge and had been a member of the New York Athletic Club.

His marriage to his first wife, the former Miss Fannie Tailer, was terminated by divorce. Mr. Smith leaves his second wife, Mrs. Florence Hathorn Durant Smith; two sons, Earl E. T. Smith and Sydney A. Smith; a sister, Mrs. Alfred Kessler, and two grandchildren.

Suzanne Perrin Wed At Home Here to F. D. Roosevelt Jr.

Only Immediate Families
Present; Elliott Roosevelt
Best Man for His Brother

Miss Suzanne Perrin, daughter of Mrs. Lee J. Perrin and the late Mr. Perrin, was married yesterday afternoon to Representative Franklin Delano Roosevelt jr., third son of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, of this city and Hyde Park, N. Y., and the late President Roosevelt. The ceremony was performed at 3:30 in the home of the bride's mother, 45 East Sixty-sixth Street, by the Rev. Dr. Lee Vaughn Barker, of the Broadway Tabernacle.

Only immediate members of the families, including Mrs. Roosevelt, were present at the wedding and reception which followed.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Lester W. Perrin, of Far Hills, N. J. She wore a gown of white organdie, with an off-the-shoulder neckline, and a bouffant overskirt of embroidered white organdie. Her long tulle veil was fastened to her hair with sprigs of white bouvardia at either side. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia. Miss Genestra Spinola, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. Elliott Roosevelt was best man for his brother.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will pass the winter in Washington.

The bride attended the Chapin School, this city, and was graduated from Westover School, Middlebury, Conn. During the war she served for two years in the Marine Corps Women's Reserve. Her father was a senior partner in the law firm of Appleton, Rice & Perrin and was chairman of the board of Ciba Pharmaceutical Products Corp., Summit, N. J.

Mr. Roosevelt, a graduate of Groton School, Harvard University and the University of Virginia Law School, served overseas in the Navy, retiring with the rank of lieutenant commander. He is a member of the law firm of Poletti, Diamond, Freidin and Mackay and, last May, won a special election to Congress from the 20th District of New York to succeed the late Sol Bloom.

On June 30, 1937, Mr. Roosevelt married the former Miss Ethel du Pont. The wedding, attended by the President and hundreds of guests, was a brilliant event of that season. The marriage was terminated by divorce May 21 last in Minden, Nev. Their children are Franklin D. Roosevelt 3d, born July 19, 1938, and Christopher Roosevelt, born Dec. 21, 1941.

Jane Boyd and C. B. Ives, Harvard Graduate, Wed

Special to the Herald Tribune

BEDFORD, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The marriage of Miss Jane Harrison Boyd, of New York, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allen Richards Boyd, of Washington and New York, to Mr. Chauncey Bradley Ives, of New York, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Merwin Ives, took place here yesterday in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, the rector, the Rev. Arthur Ketchum, officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Ritchie Boyd, of Mount Kisco, and attended by her niece, Miss Julie Boyd. Mr. Gerard M. Ives was best man for his brother. Only the immediate families were present.

After a trip the couple will live at Coconut Grove, Fla., where Mr. Ives is a teacher at the Ransom School. A graduate of Groton School, Yale College and the Harvard Law School, he was a member of the legal staff of the Securities and Exchange Commission before the war. He served with the American Field Service and the Office of Strategic Services and received the British decoration of member of the Order of the British Empire.

BROOKLYN JUDGE ROBBED

Louis Goldstein Reports Theft of Valuables in Cannes Hotel

CANNES, France, Aug. 23 (AP)—Louis Goldstein, Judge of the Kings County, N. Y., court, told Cannes police that thieves had entered his hotel room and stolen $4,500 worth of jewelry and travelers checks. 1949

Mr. Goldstein said the robbery took place Saturday night or early Sunday morning. The police said they believed the thieves had entered the room by using the regular key, obtained somehow from the hotel desk.

Mr. Goldstein was staying at the fashionable Hotel Carlton, which fronts on the Mediterranean during his stay on the Riviera.

Judge Goldstein Robbed Of $9,000 in Cannes

CANNES, France, Aug. 23 (UP). —Judge Louis Goldstein, of Brooklyn, disclosed today that thieves had entered his room in the Carlton Hotel and robbed him of his passport and between $9,000 and $10,000 in travelers' checks and jewelry.

Scores of extra police were secreted in the corridors and spare rooms of hotels of Nice and Cannes, and police flashed alerts to every port and airfield in France. They said stolen American passports sometimes were altered for use by criminals.

Judge Goldstein, president of the Board of County Judges of Kings County, arrived in Cannes at the end of last week en route to Israel, where he planned to carry out an inspection tour on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and the Haddassah Society of New York.

S. SHANKS JR. DEAD; EDITED BOND BUYER

President of Publication Five Years Joined Staff in 1914
—Headed Municipal Club

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRIGHTWATERS, L. I., June 11—Sanders Shanks Jr., president and editor of The Bond Buyer, died early today in his home here, after an illness of several months. His age was 58.

Mr. Shanks had been with The Bond Buyer since 1914. When he joined the staff an uncle, Lynn Shanks, was a director of the publication, which had been founded by Sanders Shanks' grandfather in 1891 and specializes in reporting on the issuance and marketing of state and municipal securities.

Born in Brooklyn, May 27, 1891, a son of Sanders Shanks Sr. and Mrs. Mary Poey Shanks, Mr. Shanks attended the public schools of Brooklyn. A grandfather, William F. G. Shanks, was city editor of Horace Greeley's Tribune in the days when the newspapers were crusading against Boss Tweed, the Tammany leader.

After a brief period as a reporter for The Bond Buyer, Mr. Shanks was elected secretary in 1914 and treasurer in 1919. In 1929 he became vice president of the publication and in 1944 he was elected president, succeeding Charles Otis, president of The American Banker and former president of The Wall Street Journal, who had been president of The Bond Buyer since 1917.

Under the editorship of Mr. Shanks, The Bond Buyer was active in campaigning against abuses revealed in the bond market by such as the Travis legislative investigation into the handling of various New York State investment funds in the early Nineteen Twenties. More recently, under Mr. Shanks' direction, it took a leading part in the fight against the Maloney Bill.

Mr. Shanks was a charter member as well as past president and governor of the Municipal Bond Club of New York and was a member of the Over Fifty Club, the Bond Club of New York, the Bankers Club of America, the Municipal Forum of New York, the Bond Club of New Jersey and the Coral Gables (Fla.) Refunding Committee.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Marjorie Liptrott Shanks; his mother; two daughters, Mrs. Andrew J. Melton Jr. of Brightwaters and Mrs. Douglas K. Hoverkamp of East Islip, L. I.; a son, William S. Shanks of Brightwaters, and two sisters, Mrs. Herbert L. Girvin of Larchmont, N. Y. and Mrs. Samuel H. Reynolds of New York.

Head of Order's Utica Home

A funeral service for William J. Wiley, superintendent of the Masonic Home in Utica, was held yesterday at the Presbyterian Church on Madison Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street. Rev. Dr. Theodore G. B. Smith officiated. Many guests attended the service.

More than 100 guests attended the service. Reminiscences of Mr. Wiley were brought up by the Rev. Dr. Smith while the service was in progress.

WILLIAM B. WAIT, 76, A LAWYER 55 YEARS

Ex-Leader of Anti-Prohibition
Unit in State Dies—Helped Win Referendum in 1926

William Bell Wait, a lawyer with an office at 230 Park Avenue, who was president of the Valve Pilot Corporation at the same address, died yesterday, after a long illness, in his room at the New York Yacht Club, 37 West Forty-fourth Street. Born in this city, he would have been 77 years old on July 13.

Admitted to the bar in 1894, the year in which he was graduated from the Columbia Law School, Mr. Wait practiced independently for a time and then became a partner in the law firm of Cowing, White & Wait, a connection that endured several years. His association with the Valve Pilot Corporation began in 1927.

A veteran of the war with Spain, in which he served as an ensign on the Yankee, Mr. Wait was a member of the New York Naval Militia from 1896 to 1922. In the first World War he held the rank of commander, and from August, 1917, to March, 1919, had command of the U.S.S. Montgomery. Later he commanded the First Battalion of the New York Naval Militia, with the rank of captain.

A vigorous opponent of prohibition, Mr. Wait, in the middle Nineteen Twenties, served without salary and at a considerable sacrifice of his personal income as chairman of the New York State Referendum Committee, an offshoot of the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment. His efforts played an important part in achieving a 3-to-1 victory for his side in the referendum returns of November, 1926.

Mr. Wait belonged to the Bar Association of the City of New York, the Railroad-Machinery Club, University Club, Union League and the Amateur Comedy Club. He was a member of the board of managers of the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind, which awarded a medal to him for his valuable contributions to its work, and a trustee of the Marine Museum of the City of New York.

A sister, Mrs. Frank Battles of Wayne, Pa., survives.

The service will be held at 4 P. M. tomorrow in the Campbell Funeral Church, Madison Avenue and Eighty-first Street.

Heroic Efforts Save Two Homes At Lonelyville

One Home Is Destroyed; Ocean Beach, Fair Harbor Volunteers Help

4/14/49
Sunday was an exciting day in the little community on Fire Island Beach known as Lonelyville. Just as everyone was enjoying the beautiful afternoon, a small brush fire was noticed at about 2 p. m., in a field of beach grass. A brisk wind was blowing from the northwest and in a matter of seconds the original blaze spread considerably and swept eastward toward the home of Mrs. Chloe Meyers.

Before the few Sunday visitors to the beach could reach the spot the house was a blazing torch. The summer residence of Paul Baldwin, chief of the WOR recording department, located within 30 feet of the burning building, also was threatened and but for the fact that Mr. Baldwin and his family had cleared the area surrounding his house from grass that morning, it too would have been ignited.

A bucket brigade was formed by residents of the community and volunteers from Ocean Beach and Fair Harbor. They soaked blankets and quilts in the bay and laid them on the roof of the Baldwin house, keeping them wet with buckets of water, thereby preventing a spread of the flames to the structure. The Ocean Beach power pumper arrived on the scene and assisted in the operation.

The grass fire continued its eastward sweep toward Ocean Beach, completely surrounding the summer dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reynolds at Lonelyville. But for d the heroic work performed by the Ocean Beach volunteers, this house too would have been demolished. One of the volunteers crawled beneath the building and with a shovel and sand extinguished the fire which had started in practically everyone of the supporting piles of the house.

Dr. George S. King, who submitted this report on the fire, says that the residents of Lonelyville are thankful for the valuable services

Thomas T. Barr, Of Brokerage Firm, Is Dead

Had Wall Street Business
With Brothers 36 Years;
Municipal Bonds Expert

Thomas Turner Barr, sixty, a member of the firm of Barr Brothers & Company, brokers of 40 Wall Street, died yesterday in Palm Beach, Fla., according to word received here. He lived in Mantoloking, N. J.

Mr. Barr was born in Brooklyn, a son of the late Thomas M. Barr and Mrs. Ella Manning Barr. After attending Pingry School, Elizabeth, N. J., he was graduated from Rutgers University in 1913.

He then joined the securities firm, which, he conducted with his brothers, F. Seymour and W. Manning Barr, for thirty-six years. His career was interrupted for a time during World War I when he served as a pilot in the Navy air force with the rank of lieutenant (junior grade).

Mr. Barr was considered an expert in municipal bonds and was well known in that field of finance.

A member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity while at Rutgers, Mr. Barr belonged to the Sons of the American Revolution, the Bankers Club, the University Club, the Down Town Association and the Tuscarora Club, Arena, N. Y.

Surviving, besides his mother and his brothers, are his wife, Mrs. Mary T. Barr, and a sister, Mrs. Gorham Bliss.

THE PATIENT AT BETHESDA

James Forrestal's physician at the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda describes the former Secretary of Defense, who is a patient there, as suffering from "operational fatigue."

Operational fatigue was a term coined in the Second World War to describe the physical and emotional reaction that came from fighting too long without respite. Some soldiers developed the symptoms after a short time at the front; others fought for months before breaking. One aviator would fly ten missions and then develop symptoms; another would fly fifty. However, one fact was established: every man has a breaking point, and when this point comes he must rest.

For Mr. Forrestal there was no respite after V-E Day or V-J Day. He continued in the "front lines" seven days a week for eight years, first fighting the war, and then struggling with the problems of reorganization and unification. Fortunately, with rest and proper treatment, the outlook for recovery from operational fatigue is excellent. For this we can all be grateful, for if ever a man gave his strength and his energy to his country, James Forrestal has done so. His untiring efforts and self-sacrifice have earned for him the gratitude and respect of his fellow-citizens, and the rest he so richly deserves.

Academy of Medicine to Honor Dr. George King

Fifty Years of Service as Physician to Be Recognized by College

By Jem McElligott

Dr. George S. King of Bay Shore will be presented with a Gold diploma at the graduation exercises of the New York Academy of Medicine on June 8. This award will be bestowed in recognition of his fifty years in the practice of medicine.

The youngest student to graduate from New York Medical College up to the class of 1899, Dr. King at the age of 21 entered his career as a physician and surgeon. He served an internship at Flower Hospital and later at Metropolitan Hospital on Blackwells Island. His first practice was established in the vicinity of 9th st. Brooklyn.

Back in 1900 when rowboats were used to transport members of the night staff to and from the Island, other facilities and techniques were comparable. On one occasion Dr.

King recalls having submitted a requisition for rubber gloves, for an operating room. This request was rejected by the then Commissioner of Health with the caustic comment, that he would not perform an operation without a protective covering on his hands, he had better get to surgery. This King, is a perfect illustration of the progress of medicine during the past 50 years.

Moving his office to Bay Shore early in 1915, King located his office at the corner of Mrs. John Smith on the corner of Park ave., and Main. It soon became a familiar sight to town riding his bicycle with a bag perched on the handle bars. In those days the house calls were set at 5 cases were expensive items, at an all inclusive fee of $10.

In the fall of the same year he moved his office to Maple ave. and acquired his first horse and buggy, enabling him to serve patients faster and within a larger area. Later as the need arose he secured the services of an associate, Dr. Frank M. Gardner, a former classmate who remained with Dr. King for 11 years. During this period Dr. King found the horseless carriage a boon to the country Doctor. One of the first autos in Suffolk County, a one cylinder Rambler, carried him to his patients at the rate of 20 miles per hour. This proved too slow for the pace he had to follow and he acquired a 2-cylinder Rambler. This car was equipped with an auxiliary electric generator to provide electric light in the home of a patient and enabled the doctor to perform surgery and accurate diagnosis under better lighting conditions than were afforded by kerosene and gas light. Proving of real value in countless cases, it gradually developed into a portable hospital.

Lack of communications in emergency cases was then a definite obstacle in the path of medical progress. Telephones were few and far

IN CARDIOLOGY, WAS 72

Dr. Emil R. Zak, a specialist in internal medicine and cardiology, died on Tuesday in Montefiore Hospital, the Bronx, after a brief illness, at the age of 72. He resided at 11 East Eighty-sixth Street, Manhattan, and had an office at 993 Park Avenue.

Born in Bruenn, Austria-Hungary, Dr. Zak received his M.D. degree in 1901 from the University of Vienna. He did various types of research at the university, where he became Professor of Internal Medicine. At one time he was chief of the Heart Station, a hospital in Vienna, and there taught many American physicians. He also had been physician in chief of the Workmen's Sickness Benefit Fund in Vienna.

After the triumph of the Nazis in Austria, Dr. Zak went to England, and in 1940 he came to New York. He was an adjunct physician and an assistant adjunct cardiologist at Beth David Hospital here. He was a member of the American Heart Association, New York Cardiological Association, American Medical Association and New York County and State Medical Societies.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Margret Hofmann Zak; two sons, Dr. George A. Zak of London and Dr. Frederick G. Zak of New York; a sister, Mrs. Grete Schindel of Brussels, Belgium, and a grandson.

THE DEFENSE SECRETARY

3/14/49
The Department of National Defense is today at a critical stage of development. Set up under the National Security Act of 1947 as the unified agency of national defense, it has in a year and a half of operation shown many minor and some major defects. Suggested remedies, based on Congressional observation, a thorough study by the Hoover Commission and recommendations from within the Department itself, are soon to be presented to the Eighty-first Congress. In these circumstances it is difficult to think of anyone in the Government whose abilities in his post will be missed more than those of the retiring Secretary. No one else can possibly be as familiar as he is with the working of the Department, with its good points and with its defects.

For nine years Mr. Forrestal has given unselfish and outstanding service to his country. First he was one of President Roosevelt's "anonymous assistants" in the days of preparation for the war that both saw coming. From that position he was stepped up to the post of Under-Secretary of the Navy, in charge of procurement and production. When his superior, Frank Knox, died in the spring of 1944, he became Secretary of the Navy. Although he at first opposed unification of the services, when the unified Department was established by Congress in 1947 he was widely endorsed as the man best fitted for the job. He has tried over the last year and half, with diplomacy, and department work efficiently. When he saw that it wasn't going to work efficiently he was one of the first to recommend reforms.

In the choice of Mr. Forrestal's successor there is reason to believe that political factors have played some part. This is regrettable, since national security demands the best available man in the nation to head the Defense Department, irrespective of any other consideration. However, on the record, there should be no diminution of zeal for a strong national defense under the new Secretary. As Assistant Secretary of War from 1937 to 1940, Mr. Johnson was indefatigable in his efforts to build up the Army, to draw plans for industrial mobilization and to make the people of the United States conscious of the great decisions that lay before them. In testimony a year and a half ago before the Senate War Investigating Committee he revealed that it was a split within the Roosevelt Cabinet that prevented the adoption and publication in 1939 of a plan for industrial mobilization which had been drawn up at his direction. Many of the essentials of this plan were incorporated later in the war mobilization effort.

Mr. Johnson takes over the Defense Secretaryship at a difficult time. It is a job that will put him on his mettle and require of him not only hard work but courage and great wisdom. On his success in mastering it may depend events not now foreseeable. We regret Mr. Forrestal's departure but we wish Mr. Johnson well in the post he has assumed.

REV. JOHN DIMAN, EDUCATOR, 85, DIES

Founded Portsmouth Priory,
Catholic, in 1926, and St.
George's, Episcopal, in '96

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 18—

The Rev. John Hugh Diman, O.S.B., founder of St. George's School, an Episcopal institution, and of the Portsmouth Priory School, a Roman Catholic institution, died last night at the Benedictine Priory in Portsmouth, where he was prior from 1929 to 1940. He was in his eighty-sixth year.

Father Diman received an Apostolic blessing from Pope Pius on Tuesday by cable.

Born in Brookline, Mass., the son of the Rev. J. Lewis Diman, a Congregational minister, and Mrs. Emily Stimson Diman, he was graduated from Brown University in 1885, where he later received an honorary Master's degree. He was also a graduate of the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, Mass., and received a Master's degree from Harvard.

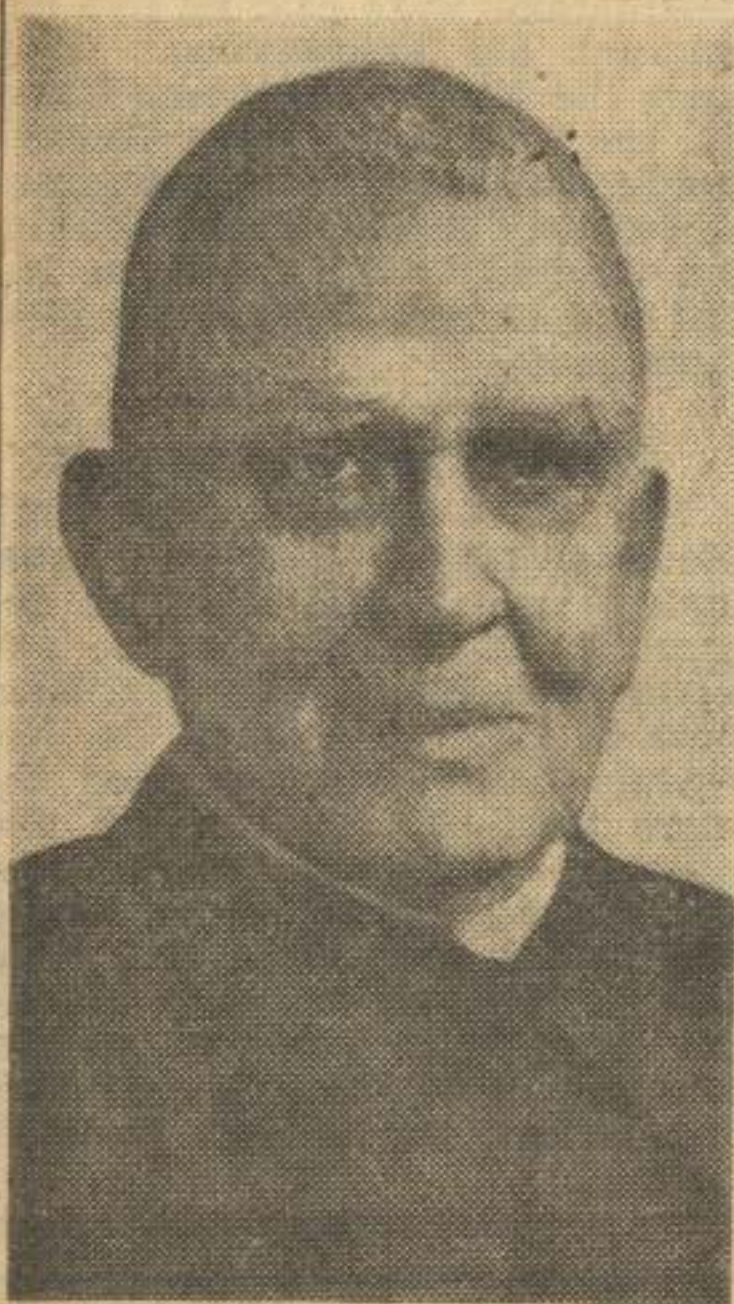

In 1896 Father Diman founded St. George's School in Middletown, resigning as headmaster twenty years later to serve with the Red Cross in Europe. In 1912 he founded the Diman Vocational School in Fall River, Mass., and in 1926 the Portsmouth Priory School.

From 1888 to 1892 he served as rector of St. Columba's Church in Middletown. After his conversion in 1917 to the Roman Catholic faith he studied at Oxford and at the Academy for Noble Ecclesiastics in Rome.

He was ordained a Catholic priest in 1921. Two years later Father Diman joined the Benedictine Order at Ford Augustus, Scotland, taking his final vows in 1924, when he returned to this country. For a time he was curate of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes in New York.

Since his retirement as headmaster of the Portsmouth school in 1942 he had lived at the priory.

Surviving are two sisters, Emily and Louise Diman of Providence.

NEW JERSEY'S NO. 1 LAWYER

Theodore D. Parsons

Blackstone

NEW JERSEY LAW CHIEF

A HUSTLER AS BOY

T.D. Parsons, Attorney General Designate, Was Lamplighter to Earn College Fund

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LITTLE SILVER, N. J., Jan. 23

—The alert high school boy who years ago lighted the gas lamps in the streets of near-by Shrewsbury every night to pay his way through Princeton University will become New Jersey's No. 1 lawyer today when his appointment as State Attorney General is due to be confirmed by the Legislature in Trenton.

Theodore D. Parsons of Red Bank, appointed several days ago by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll, is scheduled to take office Feb. 4, succeeding Walter D. Van Riper, who will remain in state service as a special counsel for a time after his term expires.

Today, at 54, he is still keenly interested in Boy Scouting, the Y. M. C. A., basketball, football, baseball, volley ball, boating and fishing. He participates enthusiastically in many of the sports his boys, Teddy Jr. and John, enjoy.

He even settles down now and then to a jacks contest with his 9-year-old daughter Peggy. He'll jump rope with her, too, if she insists.

Son of a Minister

Born at La Crosse, Wis., the son of the late Rev. Dwight L. Parsons, Presbyterian minister, the new Attorney General-designate readily recalls the number of gas lamps he used to light through the wide stretches of Shrewsbury borough. He was then a Red Bank High School student, but his goal was Princeton. There were twenty-three lamps to be lighted each night at 3 cents each, with 1 cent added for each during the summer months.

He later took on some extra work that netted him another $40 a month. When he entered college he was the proud possessor of a $1,600 bank account.

"I was only on the scrub teams at Princeton," he says, "but managed to get plenty of action in baseball, football and basketball. I've never lost my interest in sports—haven't missed a home football game at Princeton and see the big league baseball games whenever it's possible to get away."

Mr. Parson's older son, Teddy, now thirteen, said last summer that he wanted to see a Yankee double-header.

"Okay," his father told him. "Why don't you get some of your friends to go along, too?"

The next day young Parsons approached his father dubiously.

"I guess I went a little too far," said the boy. "Thirty kids accepted!"

"The more the merrier," replied the father. "We'll charter a bus!"

An Ardent Fisherman

Mr. Parsons is an ardent fisherman—deep-sea fishing in the near-by Atlantic and fresh-water fishing in Canada, with Margaret, his wife, as his enthusiastic companion. He has a Barnegat "Garvey" that he describes as the safest boat in the world. In it he goes on "exploring" expeditions around the Shrewsbury River tributaries with his boys and their pals.

Mr. Parsons' most valued trophy is the Silver Beaver Scout Award which was given him after many years of scouting. He is active in "Y" work and is a member of a Red Bank volley ball team made up of professional men.

After his graduation from Princeton in 1915 he attended Columbia Law School. His studies were interrupted by World War I and he joined the Army Air Corps. He served overseas with the 139th Aerial Squadron, ending his military career as a test pilot.

He is a past commander of Shrewsbury Legion Post of Red Bank, former president of the Monmouth County Bar Association, a director in the New Jersey State Bar Association and a member of the American Bar Association. In 1930 he received the Red Bank Rotary Club's plaque for outstanding community service.

ELIOT CROSS DEAD; RETIRED ARCHITECT

Designed Important Buildings
Here, Once Realty Official—
Developed Sutton Place

Eliot Cross of Princeton, N. J., retired architect and real estate man, died yesterday in Princeton Hospital, after a long illness, at the age of 65.

In 1907 he began, in partnership with his brother, John W. Cross, the practice of architecture under the name of Cross and Cross. This firm was discontinued in 1942, because of the war.

Some of the buildings the concern designed were the Tiffany, the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, the Stone & Webster, the Harriman, Doctors Hospital, the Public National Bank and the Barclay Hotel.

He had been a director of the Bank of Manhattan and a trustee of the Greenwich Savings Bank. He organized and had been chairman of the board of the real estate firm of Webb and Knapp. It was through a syndicate headed by Mr. Cross that the development of Sutton Place began.

Mr. Cross was a member of a syndicate which bought and sold the old site of Presbyterian Hospital at Park Avenue and Seventieth Street.

Born in South Orange, N. J., he attended Groton and was graduated in 1906 from Harvard. In the first World War he served overseas in the construction department of the American Red Cross and was decorated by the French Government.

He had been a governor of the Knickerbocker and Links clubs and The Hangar; treasurer and vice president of the Racquet Club and a member of the Brook Club. He was a former director of the American Red Cross, New York Chapter, and of the First and Fifth Avenue associations.

Besides his brother, he leaves his wife, the former Martha McCook; a son, James Eliot Cross; a daughter, Mrs. Barney Bradberry of Tucson, Ariz., and two sisters, Mrs. Allan Marquand and Miss Emily Cross.
